YouRNI News 1: November 2016

Dear partners,

on our first transnational project meeting in Karlsruhe I promised to come up with a suggestion for a list of criteria which we could use to evaluate learning apps during our project work.

Here it comes, see the attached file - and I would like to thank Christina Henn and Roland Kunz for preparing this for all of us. I understand they are not only sending an empty list of criteria, but they give a detailed example as well, and Roland will explain this to us more in detail in Istanbul.

Let me take the opportunity to spread some more YouRNI-news here:

- We have the chance to promote YouRNI at Didacta in February 2017, this is an important annual conference in Germany where educators and politicians discuss latest developments and where educational materials are on display.
- YouRNI will be chosen as a reference project in Brussels later this month, when the EU promotes Erasmus and encourages applicants for 2017 on a project development workshop. Nicole Lehmann will represent YouRNI there, for more details, see <http://lllplatform.eu/news/2017-skills-will-key/>
- On Monday I have the chance to see the first YouRNI-Logos and even a poster which we might use in Brussels. Exciting!

Thanks to Tuncer and Ute for arranging a wonderful programme for the upcoming meeting in Istanbul and for being flexible enough to react to partners' needs.

All the best,

Rudolf
